

HCPI COMMUNITY SPRUCE-UP GRANT PROGRAM INFORMATION SHEET

SUMMARY

Through the generous support of Johns Hopkins University, Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development's Baltimore Regional Neighborhoods Initiative and the Robert W. Deutsch Foundation (2014), the five-year HCPI Community Spruce-Up Grant Program is providing grants to groups, individuals and associations within the HCPI catchment area in the amount of $10,000 to $25,000. It is the goal of this grant program to provide matching resources to stimulate, leverage and provide auxiliary support for new neighborhood-driven, quality of life capital improvement projects that require $10,000 to $25,000 for their successful completion and range in cost from $15,000 to $50,000.

GOALS

1. Provide mid- to large-scale leveraged grants for residents, community groups, and organizations in the HCPI catchment area to develop and implement new quality of life improvement projects.
2. Facilitate and support the community engagement, quality of life and capital investment goals of the HCPI agenda.
3. Support the engagement of community residents, business owners, artists, community groups, and other stakeholders in the strategies of physical and social planning as community engagement and revitalization tools. In addition, engagement by parties investing within the HCPI area (e.g., developers, builders, financial institutions, larger employers) will also be sought in terms of supporting the funded projects with cash and in-kind contributions, as well as recognizing the value that such projects bring to their respective interests.
4. Assist with the realization of the master and vision plans of communities in the HCPI catchment area.
5. Contribute to the momentum of critical mass building in Central Baltimore through high-impact, visible quality of life improvement projects.

PROCESS

The HCPI Community Spruce-Up Grant Program is structured as a competitive process. All potential applicants; HCPI residents, community groups, business interests directly vested within the HCPI agenda, and nonprofit and other organizations serving the HCPI area, are required to submit a letter of intent (LOI) providing an overview of their project. After review of the LOIs, CBP will then make the application available to selected applicants based on the strength of the LOI. The application will require a project description, community needs statement, letter of support from the host community association, project scope, organizational capacity, project budget with uses and funding sources, detailed timeline, pictures of existing conditions, renderings of final project, letters of support, evidence of site control/access, permits, fees and any other associated requirements, and letters of outside funding commitments.

Following a Grant Review Committee evaluation, the Central Baltimore Partnership will announce those projects that were awarded funding. Grant awardees are expected to submit monthly project status updates, a six-month progress report and a final twelve-month project report. The reports will require information on funding expenditures, description of the process, tasks completed, stakeholders/partners engaged, impact on the community, challenges, successes, timeline, before and after pictures, among other potential requested information.
