

Hello CBP Partners,

March 19, 2020

The communities in Central Baltimore, as is always the case, are stepping up and collaborating in support of residents, businesses, and other stakeholders in the area. CBP created this brief summary to share some of the resources and tools that are helping our communities get through the COVID-19 crisis together. For additional partner updates, please follow CBP's social media platforms (Twitter and Facebook). For small business updates, please follow CBP's and Explore the Core's social media platforms (Twitter, Facebook, Instagram). As ever, please do not hesitate to reach out to CBP staff if we might be of help. Contact information is below.

For Small Businesses and Artist Resources:

The links below are resources and tools designed to help our small business community in Central Baltimore during these difficult times. The Baltimore Development Corporation (BDC) confirmed yesterday that the City of Baltimore business community met the first threshold demonstrating the need for obtaining emergency funds through the Small Business Administration and the Maryland Department of Commerce. The application process is now being finalized and we will share this information as soon as possible.

- Ecomap Network – a comprehensive collection of organizations and lenders assistance.
<https://tinyurl.com/tt9n57o>
- Impact Hub – an all-encompassing list of resources aimed to help the creative, retail, and businesses communities along with agencies providing information to individuals and families.
